

Session Title: Green Urbanization

Name: Fumio Nohara

Position: President, Nikken Sekkei Research Institute

Global temperatures continue to increase. In fact, the threats caused by unprecedented weather have been causing serious damages around the world. The role that urbanization and modern architecture should play in preventing such global warming is extremely large. NIKKEN Group participated in the Low-Carbon Model Town (LCMT) project of APEC and has been helping with an awareness campaign and implementation of actions for decarbonation in APEC economies. In addition to these projects, NIKKEN Group's activities with the keyword "Environment" will be introduced. Some of our latest practices that are beginning to meet the challenges of the future will also be introduced.