

Session Title: Industrial Decarbonization

Name: Annette Stube

Position: Head of Sustainability, A.P. Moller - Maersk

To remain competitive in a low-carbon future, new products, use of energy and stakeholder engagements are needed from companies. Maersk, an integrated container logistics company and the worlds largest container shipping company, has responded to this not-so-distant future by committing to become carbon neutral by 2050. Annette Stube, Global Head of Sustainability in Maersk, will outline how being successful in this new paradigm, reaches way beyond the boundaries of the company and how Maersk intends to reach its ambitious target.